ers, but South-western men are coming in and purchasing to the extent of nearly double the amounts of last year. Their action is based on the heavy cotton crop, which has now passed the usual possibilities of failure through worms and weather, and can be safely calculated upon. Trade has opened only since the beginning of this month.

The large dealers are having an advantage over the small men, especially in tage over the small men, especially in dry goods. They are giving longer credits, and monopolizing the bulk of the business. Cash sales at thirty days are less the rule than of late since the war, and an approach to the old times of eight, twelve and eighteen months' credit is being made, not only in the ready granting of four months, but increasing the time to six, adding interest for the extra two months.

Every heavy dry goods house is a bee hive. The clerks and salesmen alone would form a regiment, and are distin-hive. The clerks and salesmen alone would form a regiment, and are distin-guishable usually from buyers by being in shirt-sleeves, and carrying pencils on their ears. Goods are dragged from boxes and scattered in disorder, and each loft is a scene of confusion,

There is a general growl among dry goods dealers at the ugly styles of the present season. The taste of inventors seems to have been exhausted. Retailers snarl, and say they can't lay siege to the women with such patterns. Buy, however, they must. The country wants goods; and, whatever the prospects of gold or political measures, may be they gold or political measures may be, they are compelled to invest heavily.

The hotels in the evening present an unusually animated and lively appearance. In the lobbies of the hotels, in the reading-rooms, in the bar-rooms, and in the billiard-rooms, can be seen merchants from all parts of the Union. You will find the Western man generally playing billiards. He is a tall, stout, healthy gentleman, with a ruddy com-plexton. He is genial, open-hearted, good-natured and sociable. His cost is good-natured and sociable. His coat is off, and he appears to enjoy the game. If defeated, he plays again, and will keep on playing until mid-night just to win ence. On a little mahogany table to his right lies his favorite beverage, which every now and then he sips. On an elevated platform are soft cushioned chairs, where, thoughtful and motionless, sits the Southerner. He wears a long be less intrigue, fewer passions, less presents. chin whisker. His complexion is sallow.
His jet-black eye sparkles with animation. He is of a thin and delicate physique. He wears a broad-brimmed black felt hat, and is dressed in deep black select. black cloth.

In the bar-room you will find all sorts from all parts. Beside our country cousin, with his tongue rattling at a fearful rate, is the soute drummer, who offers every inducement that can bring custom to his house. He spends money freely. He sells on commission, and he can well He sells on commission, and he can went afford to regale his customer with wine, portion as the differentiation of sex becomes regale his customer with wine, portion as the differentiation of sex becomes less marked, the type of existence is more and more degraded. The prospect of a fall or decline in the prices prospect of a fall or decline in the prices recent conflict had scarcely cleared away is discussed. Views are exchanged, acquaintances formed plans laid Roots sufficiently to permit an accurate review quaintances formed, plans laid. Boots and shoes hardware, dry goods, groceries, drugs, hats and caps, and every variety of merchandize comes up in its turn, and receives a full share of attention. The crowd continues to surge to and fro. One man will listen here, and shortly after join some other group, and so on throughout the evening. At midso on throughout the evening. At mid-night, the buzz and commotion has ceased. The strangers have retired for the night.

Counterferts .- Government detectives have obtained possession of the lithograph stone from which the five-dollar counterfeit greenbacksthat have been from the polls. extensively circulated in the South and South-west were struck. It is estimated that from this stone alone over $500,000 without some great overpowering blunder of spurious notes have been printed. They have also obtained possession of the stone from which the counterfeit five-dollar bills on the Jewett National Bank, of Newett, Conn., that were so extensively circulated a few months ago, were printed. The principals of this extensive gang of counterfeiters are now in custody.

The Republican journals do not appear The Republican journals do not appear to be exactly satisfied with the Maine election. The majority of Gen. Chamberlain, the Republican candidate, is about 8,000, out of a total vote of about 8,000. The Temperanee candidate, Hitchborn, received some 5,000 votes. The vote cast last year for Governor was 131,787. The Republican majority was might be the radicals would run me for 131,787. The Republican majority was

BY J. A. SELBY.

All our hotels are jammed with business are well put. Rev. J. P. Thompson, men from all parts of the country, who LL.D., says:

"The necessary qualification for the privilege of voting is the ability to serve the State in whatever kind of service the State may require of its citizens. Any other principle of suffrage will be found conventional and arbitrary; this is logi-cal and fundamental. By this principle the figments of race-suffrage caste-suf-frage and universal suffrage fall to the ground. Under our loose and unphilosophical theories of suffrage, multitudes are now permitted to vote whom this safe and national principle would dis-

"Now, woman is, by her very nature, constitutionally and organically disqualified for the service of the State. She has not a cerebral organization adapted to the close, protracted and harassing study of State affairs, nor a nervous organiza-tion equal to the sustained exertion and endurance demanded by judicial and le-gislative duties, nor a muscular organiza-tion fitted for the police or military sertion fitted for the police or military service; and the functions of maternity, or, if she be single, the physiological condi-tion that provides for maternity as the normal function of womanhood, incapacitate her for a kind of service that must either repress her nature or destroy her health. That woman can do somethings that the State requires, and that some men cannot do anything, does not invali-date the great fundamental principle by which society must assign the privilege of suffrage. Women cannot claim to participate in the government of the State, because, as women, they cannot render the equivalent service that the State is entitled to demand of the governing class among its citizens. Their disability is not civil or legal, but physiological and natural, and no amount of voting could remove it.

"Another objection to women's participating in political life, that Dr. Bushnell states, but fails to press with his usual vigor, is that it would so far work a practical obliteration of sex as to disorganize society. For deferential courte-sy and considerate regard in man, it would substitute a virago boldness in woman, and would produce a hybrid species, which Count Gasparin has aptly termed femmehomme—the woman-man—

These significant questions of Count Gasparin are answered equally by the excesses of the French Revolution, and the vices of the French Court. the vices of the French Court. And human nature adds its warning to the voice of history. To force women into sphere of men, by violating at once the physiological laws of her being and the ethereal delicacy of her sex, is to degrade the State and to disorganize society. Naturalists have observed that in pro-portion as the differentiation of sex be-

When the leaves begin to change, remittent and intermittent fevers make their appearance. From the surface of the earth, bathed nightly in heavy dews, from marshes and swamps surcharged with moisture from the dying foliage of the woods, from festering pools and sluggish streams, the sun of September evolves clouds of miasmatic vapor perilous to health and life. The body, deprived by the burning temperature of July and August of much of its vigor and elasticity, is not in a proper plight to resist malaria; ann hence all diseases that are produced by a depraved condition of the atmosphere are particularly pravalent in the fall.

There is no reason why the health of thousands of people should be thus sacrificed. A preparatory course of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is a certain protection against the epidemics and endemics which autumn brings in its train. Let all dwellers in unhealthy localities, liable to such visitations, give heed to the warning and advice conveyed in this advertisement, and they may bid defiance to the foul exhalations which are now rising, night and day, from the soil around them. No farm-house in the land sheald be without this invaluable exhilarant and invigorant at any period of the year, but especially in the fall. It is not safe to go forth into the chill, misty atmosphere of a September morning or evening with the stomach unfortified by a tonic, and of all the tonics which medical chemistry has yet given to the world, HQSTETTER'S BITTERS are admitted to be the purest, the most wholesome, and the most beneficial.

Let all who desire to escape the bilious attacks, bowel complaints and malarious fevers, beneficial.

Let all who desire to escape the bilious attacks, bowel complaints and malarious fevers, take the Bitters at least twice a day throughout the present season. It is as wholesome as it is infallible.
